Eyes to Burma provides direct aid to a group of approximately four hundred Burmese refugees living and working on a garbage dump in Mae Sot, Thailand. We supply basic essentials, including food, clean water, clothing, shelter, and work tools, when the incomes of the dump's residents fall short. We also have two community centers, provide medicine to prevent diseases caused by poor sanitation, subsidize children's educations, and offer transportation to markets and to medical facilities in emergencies. The people who live at the dump, even the children, earn a meager living by picking recyclable plastic from the garbage.

The community maintains itself at a subsistence level.

Our role is to assist when aid is needed.

If you are inspired to help, please spread the word about our efforts and help raise money for the children and families living at the dump. Every dollar donated goes directly to support this community. E2B is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization with board members and staff located in Ashland, Oregon. We are all unpaid volunteers. Daily assistance to the refugees at the dump is provided by Fred Stockwell, who lives in Mae Sot full time.
